Scam Prevention

Even though tax season is behind us, scammers continue their attempts to steal money and/or information from unsuspecting citizens by claiming to be a representative of the IRS, a law enforcement office or various other agencies. Scams can be perpetuated over the phone, by mail or by email.

Regardless of the contact method, common signs of a scam can include:

- Pressure to act immediately to either prevent consequences (an arrest warrant will be issued) or attain a reward (you'll be sent a check for X amount).
- Request for payment in a specified format, for example, Google gift cards.
- Attempts to acquire personal information.

Some general rules to follow to protect yourself from scammers are:

- Do not provide passwords, pin numbers, social security numbers or other personal information over the phone or by following an email link.
- Do not purchase gift cards or Google cards to provide over the phone.
- Be cautious of anyone requesting money to pay off taxes, avoid a warrant or some other threat. The IRS, law enforcement agencies and others do not request money in this way.
- Confirm the validity of any call or email via a phone number or email for the organization that has NOT been provided by the caller/emailer.

Keep Our Streams Clean

Summer 2023

With the warmer weather, many of us are considering home and landscape improvement projects. When dreaming about your next project, remember that what you do on your property may impact stream habitats, water quality and increase flood risks downstream. Residents of Central Point have an opportunity to help improve water quality of the stream corridors, whether they live along streams or not.

Stream Setback Requirements

The City requires setbacks from all creeks and streams. Stream setbacks, also called riparian setbacks, establish a buffer between development and the local waterways. It is important to keep these areas clear of obstructions, debris, and other pollutants because of the benefits they provide, including flood storage, channel stability, natural stormwater treatment, and increased habitat for fish and wildlife.

Riparian Buffer: Right Plant - Right Place!

Deep-rooted native plants and trees have long root systems to keep soil in place, absorb runoff, and filter out pollutants. When ground and banks are left bare, soil erodes and washes into our streams.

- Remove invasive plants from your yard & riparian buffers.
- Use deep-rooted native plants in your landscaping - less water is required.

Home Improvement BMP's - What to Know

Construction Projects & Obstructions

When dirt and debris from construction sites winds up in the channel, it can reduce the capacity in the channel leading to additional flood risks, erosion, reduce water quality and impact aquatic habitat.

- Don't dump sediment or debris in streams.
- Prevent dirt from leaving the site.
- It is your responsibility to ensure water and materials do not leave the site.

Yard Maintenance & Water Quality

Yard waste, fertilizer and other chemicals in our streams and creeks can lead to excess algae growth. As algae decays, it uses up oxygen in the water that fish and other aquatic species need.

- Don't dump yard waste in streams.
- Don't overwater and fertilize sparingly.
- Be Phosphorous free with your fertilizer.
- Don't fertilize the riparian buffer.
